

ALUMNI MATTERS 2019

20 November 2019 | Global
Guides

Our annual alumni magazine, Alumni Matters 2019, celebrates the achievements of our people, both past and present.

In this issue, we explore the theme 'The Future of Work' and we have assembled a range of stories, which explore the profound and exciting changes at play in the global workplace and how businesses and individuals are approaching these changes in myriad different ways.

Featured profiles include:

The Herbert Smith Freehills alumni network spans the globe with over 5,200 members across 60 countries.

We are proud of our alumni and what they continue to achieve, and remain grateful for their significant contribution to the firm's success. To see more of their stories please visit the alumni website.

Beyond their career with us, alumni can continue to keep up-to-date with our regional events, news and latest thinking. Contact alumni@hsf.com if you would like to connect with alumni or staff in a particular region or enquire about our alumni network.

- Sally Capp, alumna and Melbourne Lord Mayor, promises 'purpose and people, not politics'
- Hon Ng and Fiona McKenzie: two alumni on opposite sides of the globe talk about the exciting landscape of law at Uber
- David Willis, former joint CEO reflects on life post retirement and his not-for-profit endeavours
- Stanley Xie and Gavin Guo, the story of fellow alumni who have reunited to lead Kewei Joint Operation
