Herbert Smith Freehills is an international law firm. Our office in Bangkok has a busy dispute resolution practice and our lawyers regularly act as counsel on international and local arbitration matters. Since the most recent global downturn in the world cotton markets, there have been various attempts to enforce International Cotton Association ("ICA") arbitration awards in Thailand.

In this guide, we set out the basic legal framework for the enforcement of international arbitration awards in Thailand, and discuss some of the strategic issues faced by parties seeking enforcement.
