

INFRASTRUCTURE INITIATIVES IN SOUTHEAST ASIA: CONSTRUCTION CHALLENGES AND OPPORTUNITIES

25 October 2019 | London
Legal Briefings

Seoul Head of Disputes, Mike McClure, recently spoke at the 2019 Annual Conference of the International Bar Association in Seoul during a session on the initiatives that Asian countries have launched in order to build, finance and operate infrastructure in the region and in other parts of the globe.

In collaboration with Of Counsels, Dan Waldek and Mark Veitch, and Senior Associate, Murphy Mok, of the firm's Asia construction team, this article captures, in Q&A format, some of the topics addressed during the IBA session, including an overview of the construction/infrastructure market, approaches to contracting and claims, the impact of technology, and dispute resolution trends in the region.
