

OUR RESPONSE TO COVID-19

16 March 2020 | Global
Legal Briefings - By Justin D'Agostino, CEO Elect

Wherever you are in the world, the COVID-19 outbreak is now affecting our daily lives.

As a firm with 27 offices around the world, we are acutely aware of the impact that this outbreak has had, and is having, on so many people and businesses.

Our thoughts are with all those affected, and those working so hard to care for their communities.

Since January, our priority has been to ensure the safety of our people and avoid any impact to our service to clients - first in Asia and now around the world.

In each of our offices, we have followed the instructions and recommendations of local authorities, and will continue to do so.

As a firm, we are fully prepared to keep business running remotely in every location.

These are challenging times for every business, government and organisation. Our teams are ready to assist those managing the complex legal and business risks posed by this outbreak. Expertise and insight is available at our COVID-19 online hub and from your usual contacts at any time.

If you have any questions about our approach or business insights, please get in touch with us directly, or through the contacts below.
