Herbert Smith Freehills' London-based international arbitration partners Paula Hodges QC, Craig Tevendale, Nicholas Peacock, Andrew Cannon and Chris Parker have all been named amongst 200 leading lawyers in Legal 500's inaugural UK International Arbitration Powerlist.

The list, which is based on extensive research by Legal 500, highlights the UK's leading arbitration practitioners working in law firms and at the Bar. The research is based upon submissions, client referees, interviews and feedback to refine the top arbitrators globally.

The firm's international arbitration team in the UK has been described by Legal 500 as a 'strong team of dedicated lawyers who master complex subject matters... the advice is pragmatic, measured and fit for purpose'.

UK Head of Arbitration Craig Tevendale commented: "We are all thrilled to feature in the inaugural "Powerlist" amongst esteemed colleagues from within the UK arbitration community, a great many of whom we recently hosted at our London Arbitration Community Dinner. It is fantastic to have all five partners recognised in this way."
