

HERBERT SMITH FREEHILLS VOTED AUSTRALIA'S MOST DESIRABLE LAW EMPLOYER THIRD YEAR IN A ROW

05 October 2017 | Australia, Asia Pacific

Herbert Smith Freehills has once again been voted as the most desirable law firm to work in the Lawyers Weekly list of Top 25 Attraction Firms.

In the Lawyers Weekly Employer of Choice Survey, legal professionals were asked which firm they would move to if they chose to leave their current employer. Over 580 respondents answered the question, with 21 per cent choosing Herbert Smith Freehills, ensuring it took out the number one position once more.

It is the third consecutive year that Herbert Smith Freehills has taken out the top spot.

Herbert Smith Freehills' Regional Managing Partner, Australia, Andrew Pike said: "This result is a clear reflection of our continued investment in our people and our industry-leading client service."

"A firm is only as good as its people, and at Herbert Smith Freehills we have a proud history of attracting the best legal talent Australia has to offer.

"We achieve this by investing in creating and maintaining a strong inclusive culture and providing our people with exceptional career development opportunities.

"Our reputation and experience provides us with the opportunity to advise some of the world's biggest corporations on their most significant matters and transactions. As a result, our lawyers get to work on some of the most challenging and career-defining legal work there is, working collaboratively with other lawyers, business services professionals and clients who are at the top of their game.

“For graduates and seasoned professionals alike this result sends a clear signal - Herbert Smith Freehills continues to be a great employer.”
