Kewei Law Firm has hired partner Cathy Liu in Shanghai, adding China disputes expertise to the firm's joint operation with Herbert Smith Freehills.

A leading China disputes lawyer with international expertise, Cathy specialises in general commercial litigation and also has extensive experience in regulatory investigations, white-collar crime and labour disputes.

Herbert Smith Freehills is one of only six international law firms permitted to integrate China law advice with international legal services through its joint operation with Kewei in the Shanghai Free Trade Zone.

"Cathy's expertise will be of enormous value to our clients," said Kewei international partner Gavin Guo. "Her experience in regulatory investigations and white-collar crime will be in demand in today's highly regulated markets."

The joint operation, Herbert Smith Freehills Kewei, formally launched in August and its services are already in heavy demand from international and China clients.

"Adding a partner like Cathy strengthens all of our capabilities in China," said May Tai, Herbert Smith Freehills' Greater China managing partner. "Clients can now access China court, tribunal or regulatory representation through one joint operation, saving time and money."
