EXPERIENCE

Andrew is responsible for providing project management expertise and consultation on eDiscovery projects within the scope of the Electronic Discovery Reference Model (EDRM), including data collection, processing, early case assessment, review, disclosure, and more. He is a keen problem solver and utilises his position as a key stakeholder to develop bespoke, technology-focused solutions and workflows.

Andrew's experience encompasses matters of varying complexities from a wide variety of sectors including healthcare, pharmaceutical, IT, automotive, and banking industries. This experience has provided him with the ability to understand and appreciate the intricacies that go into eDiscovery and data management. He leverages this to effectively manage projects from end to end and approach matters from a holistic perspective.

Andrew has 9 years of experience working in the eDiscovery industry across various service providers in the United States and Australia prior to joining HSF in 2021.
