EXPERIENCE

Ben is an experienced practitioner in the eDiscovery and Legal Technology sector, specialising in the implementation of strategies for the identification, collection, processing, review, analysis and production of data and documents for legal matters.

Ben has led eDiscovery teams on some of the firm's largest document management exercises in recent years, with particular expertise in regulatory matters, class actions and significant litigations.

As a Senior Manager, Ben brings together that combination of experience in both the legal and hospitality sectors, leading to a core competency of accurate analysis of complex matters together with a strong drive for client satisfaction and customer service excellence.

Before joining Herbert Smith Freehills in 2016, Ben spent 10 years working as a court reporter in the High Court and the Court of Appeal in England and Wales.
