EXPERIENCE

With more than 14 years' experience, Natalie leads the firm's financial services regulatory practice in Singapore, which also covers Southeast Asia.

Natalie is valued by the industry for her 'multi-jurisdictional experience' and her 'proactive approach'. The team she leads is described as 'forward thinking and proactive' and has 'a generally unique offering in its relationship with regulators and know-how of the market which it shares with clients and industry players'. Asia-Pacific Legal500 2019

Natalie has extensive experience advising on a broad range of regulatory and compliance matters, including financial services licensing, senior management accountability, culture and conduct issues, anti-money laundering (AML) regulation and compliance, suitability of investment products, cross-border marketing, M&A involving regulated entities, and the cross-border and local impact of regulatory change. She has also advised a number of fintech clients, including in relation to robo-advice, online distribution platforms, cryptocurrency exchanges, payments and acquiring business and initial coin offerings.

Her contentious experience includes advising clients on internal and regulatory investigations and enforcement, including in relation to insider trading, conflicts of interest, employee conduct issues, systems and controls breaches, IPO sponsorship conduct, misleading financial advice fees, mis-selling and breaches of AML regulations.

Natalie regularly interacts with key regulators, including the Monetary Authority of Singapore, and works closely with industry bodies such as the Asia Securities Industry and Financial Markets Association (ASIFMA) on financial services reform and developments. Natalie is also a member of the Alternative Investment Management Association's Singapore Regulatory Committee.

Natalie's recent experience includes advising:
