Following on from the popular investigations series (click here if you missed it) we are pleased to announce a new health & safety series which will focus on trends, duties, liability and mitigation strategies across the region.

There has been a steady increase in regulation in the safety space across Asia, and businesses are responding by putting health and safety matters higher up on the corporate agenda. This series will help clients understand the health and safety framework across Asia, map out what they need to do to comply and provide best practice guidance. In addition, we will look at trends in health and safety prosecutions, as well as directors' liabilities and how employee mental health and well-being fits in to the safety landscape.

This series will be useful for general counsels, senior leaders, compliance officers, employment lawyers and HR professionals with operations across the region and those focused on corporate governance.

There are 4 episodes in this series. The details and registration link for Episode 1 can be found below. The details and registration links for subsequent episodes will be sent separately. Please register and save the calendar invite to your diary. The calendar invite includes your access link for the session.
