Herbert Smith Freehills partner Helen Tang has been elected as one of eight new Vice-Chairs of the ICC's Commission on Arbitration and ADR.

赫伯特·史密斯·弗利希尔斯(Hebert Smith Freehills)合伙人(ADR)委员会(ICC)副主席

A Shanghai-based disputes partner, Helen specialises in international arbitration and other forms of dispute resolution for Chinese clients and multinational corporations. She has deep experience representing Chinese and international clients in international arbitrations under ICC rules and other institutional rules.

The ICC Commission of Arbitration and ADR serves as a think-tank and rule-making body for the ICC's dispute resolution services. Its duties include providing thought leadership and input on proposed amendments to the ICC arbitration rules, and producing reports and recommendations to raise awareness about practical issues in arbitration and ADR.

"It is my pleasure and a huge honour to join the commission, and I look forward to working closely with the steering committee," said Helen. "Together with ICC China national committee members, we will contribute China perspectives to the work of the Commission, as well as introducing international best practices to further develop China's arbitration and ADR practices."
